SPORTING COMMENT.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

Things are now a rumor afloat yesterday to the effect that New York would not play the deciding game with Chicago, there really never was any foundation for such a statement.

We have taken this occasion to say that the New York club forfeited the championship to Chicago when it refused to accept the playing of the game, and not to have anything more to say about having the game played next to have the flag awarded to the Cubs.

The game in New York was played with up the National League season. It is a wonderful climax to a really great race, and the American League fans, this city, will be decided by the last game to be played.

That the Chicago club is at a disadvantage in being forced to go to New York to play this game there is not the slightest doubt. Think of the immense crowd all rooting against the Cubs, that will witness today's game. It will take a great team to win for New York today. The Cubs will present a front intact, fit and ready, something that cannot be said for the Giants, several of whom are crippled, but the game is the great Matheson will be called upon to win the flag for his team, which either Reulbach or Brown, or it may be the left-hander Pfiester, who will be asked to land the third flag for the Cubs.

If the Nationals can improve as much next season over this as they have this year, every patron of the game here will be well satisfied. There has been a great improvement made in the local team since last spring a year ago. Then it was a hopeless tailender, and now it is a team that is sure to beat not several teams next season and has a chance to be a factor in the next race.

Considering that this has all been accomplished in one year, the progress has been most satisfactory. Cantillon now has something more than a nucleus for a winner, something that several teams in the American League cannot boast of just yet. Then, too, there are several players on the team who have seen their first year in fast company, and as they have shown great improvement in their work as the season progressed, better things are to be expected of them next season.

There are three players on the local team who were unknown quantities in the spring, but by their good work have established the fact that they can more than hold their own in fast company.

First of these is Charley Street, who is one year, by his excellent work, has made a reputation. That Street is one of the best catchers in the American League is generally conceded, and there are just about half the managers of the league that he is the best of them all, not even barring Billy Sullivan, of the White Sox.

George McBride and Jerry Freeman, in the opinion of many, were not fast enough for the company—so alleged after they had been seen in a few games with the Cubs in the spring. Today there is not the slightest doubt of their being where they belong, and in fact, it is questionable whether any team in this league has a better looking infield than McBride, Foreman and Gessler. Freeman has not only astonished with as a fielder, but his hitting has been a surprise, now that he is acquainted with the company he is in, still greater improvement may be looked for. Any team which brings three players out of a minor league and has all three of them make good is making no mistake in selecting its men and is lucky.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion among ball players and critics that the event of the Cubs winning from New York today that Chicago will again win the world's series. No one seems to believe that the Tigers will be able to cope with the Cubs, but it is conceded that Jennings' team would take a great chance against New York.

In this city most every one interested in baseball hopes to see the Giants land the pennant. This is natural, and there is no question that it would be for the best interests of the game to have one of the championships come East. With all of the players placed in New York and the other in Detroit, it would be the first time in the history of the National against the American League, and the interest would be greater than it has ever been in the history of the game.

Hughey Jennings predicted last summer that he and McGraw would fight for the world's championship this fall. One part of his prediction has been realized, and today it will be decided whether he errs or not.

Johnson Wins Interesting 11-Inning Game.

ONLY ONE RUN IS SCORED

Freeman's Single Brings Victory in Final Round—Nationals Fall on Southpaw Wilson in Fifth Inning of Second Game, Scoring Enough Runs to Give Them Easy Victory—Witherup Shows Well.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

Both games of the double-header with New York yesterday were won by the Nationals, the first, an eleven-inning struggle, by the score of 1 to 0, and the second with ease by the score of 9 to 4.

The first struggle was one which would have done credit to two teams fighting for the pennant or a more important game has not been seen on the local lot this season.

It was a battle between Walter Johnson and a diminutive chap, Warhop by name, who for six innings was about as troublesome a proposition as the Nationals have been asked to solve this season. Though left much the better man Johnson, Warhop was able to prevent a run from crossing the plate during those first six rounds. He found himself in numerous holes, but time and time again worked his way out of them. Finally, in the seventh, he got a few bad breaks, and Jerry Freeman came along with the necessary base hit, which sent the game.

Johnson's work was up to his usual standard. He was as steady as a rock, not passing a man and never being in a hole. In only four of the eleven innings did he have men on the bases, and only once did a man reach third. He allowed five hits, only two of which came in one inning, and struck out eight men. Only twice during the game was he to such a position that a base hit would have meant runs for the visitors, but on each occasion he proved equal to the task of testing the batsmen upon whom the hopes of Zimmerman were then depended.

Warhop Good in Pinches.

Warhop, on the other hand, was almost constantly in tight pinches, but he was fortunate and game enough to get out of these holes with a whole hide.

In the second inning, for instance, Freeman got a single and McBride a double, but the drives came with two out, and Street was not there with the timely hit.

In the third Milan and Gandey hit safely with one out. Unglaub forced Gandey, and on an attempted double steal Milan was nailed at the plate. In the sixth he walked Gandey, the first man up, and Unglaub followed with a single, but Pickering's attempt to sacrifice resulted in Gandey being forced at third and Clymer's fine drive to Moriarity was turned into a double play.

With one out in the eighth Milan reached first on a fielder's choice, Gandey nor Unglaub could bring him home.

Pickering's scratch single and his steal of second were the only hits in the game, but they put an end to the only.

The visitors' attack was more productive, however. Gandey started with a safety to center, and Unglaub sacrificed. O'Rourke made a pass. Pickering bunted, and as Gandey and Unglaub reached second and third Warhop's throw to catch Gandey at the plate got too late, and the bases were full. Clymer's tap nailed Gandey at the plate, but Freeman singled and Unglaub scored with ease.

Visitors Fail to Score.

The first chance for a run the visitors had came in the eighth, when Cree hit to right field for three bases. Two outs were two out at the time, and McBride took care of Gardner. In the eighth there was another chance. Donovan got a hit to start with, but Foreman, in an attempt to sacrifice, popped up a little fly to Johnson. Witherup was given more time to make a double play. Warhop was given a life by McBride's fumble and Cree hit to left for a base, but this time Gardner got to third on the play to end it was over. After that not another man reached first base.

WILL ADMIT CHILDREN FREE.

Final Game a Treat for the Little Folks and Ladies—Notes.

This is not only ladies' day at the ball park, but all children under 11 years of age will be admitted to the park free of charge. The announcement was made before yesterday's game that children would be admitted free of charge in honor of seeing the final game of the season, but after the game Business Manager Freed stated that in a happy frame of mind because the park employes had presented him with a handsome lounge and rocker, raised the fund to do it.

Bert Keeley, one of the smallest men in the big leagues, will be the umpire for the locals, while Lake will probably work back of the bat.

The game will be called at 3:30.

Hugh Witherup made a very favorable impression with the locals by the manner in which he fielded and handled himself after a season's rest, rather after he did not exert himself during the last forty innings of the game. He showed that he had a no easy matter to get runs. Witherup is as tall as Tom Hughes, and his method is similar to that of the veteran. He has good speed and a most deceptive curve ball, and, best of all, he holds his position well. He showed this in his fourth inning when he covered first on a ball hit by Bridwell to Unglaub. He caught the ball off his shoe tops while running at top speed and got his man.

No man on the local team has placed better ball than Unglaub since he became a member of it. He filled three different positions yesterday, and all very satisfactorily, and his timely batting was one of the features. Unglaub has made good in the big league, and will be seen played on it. It is by no means certain that Unglaub will play on the local infield next season. That the team should be strengthened with a good, hard-hitting right-handed batter in the outfield has been shown time and time again this season, and it is not at all unlikely that the management will try and get a right field slugger on the infield.

Manager Chesbro yesterday was off color because of the pain he suffers from his rheumatism, which have not yet entirely healed.

If nothing happens to George McIntyre, he will be the only member of the local team who has played in every game this season. Including today's games, 156 games will have been played by Manager Griffith, of which were the umpires.

Whatever doubt existed in the spring as to McIntyre's ability to head the staff in the American League has entirely disappeared, and by his clever pitching he has earned the reputation of being one of the best pitchers in either major league. Not only has McIntyre made good in the box, but his hitting has been better than was expected. In fact, he has shown steady improvement in this respect, and should be a 20 per cent batter next season.

Walter Johnson is filling out. He weighs about ten pounds more than he has at any time this season, and is in fine condition for today's game. The pitcher has a much better percentage, however, than he had for several years.

SCORE EIGHT RUNS IN FIFTH.

Locals Pound Wilson and Put Game on Ice in One Inning.

For four innings of the second game of the double-header with New York Manager Witherup of three hits, together with a wild throw by Merkle and Wilson, had given the Highlanders a brace of runs and the third inning one run, which seemed all that Wilson, a young left-hander, would be required to get, but what happened to Wilson in the fifth inning was a plenty for the entire two thousand fans. Robert Unglaub, of Baltimore, Md., got his batting clothes on early in this inning by hitting a three-bagger with the bases full, starting a rally which did not end until eight runs had been chased over the plate. There was nothing to the game after that.

Ray Witherup made his debut before a local crowd and left a most favorable impression. The young man looks and acts like a pitcher. He not only displayed good curves and speed, but he showed ability as a fielder of his position. For five innings Witherup pitched brilliantly, but after that he could afford to take it easy, for the locals had so much of a lead that there was no necessity for his exertions himself.

The only inning worth describing is the fifth. Charley Street started it by rolling by drawing a pass. Witherup struck out, trying to sacrifice, and Foreman grounded to Moriarity, which the latter fumbled. Gandey placed a long single over the third base line, which he beat out, filling the bases. Then it was that Unglaub came up for over Lajoie's head for three bases. Edmondson followed with a double which Gardner could not see for the sun. Clymer, Mullin, and Shipke walked, O'Rourke helped things along by hitting the wide throw of McBride's grounder, Street fouled out, but Witherup dropped a safe one over first. Milan was nailed at the plate, as the ball on walked Gandey, the first man up, and Unglaub followed with a single, but Pickering's attempt to sacrifice resulted in Gandey being forced at third and Clymer's fine drive to Moriarity was turned into a double play.

With one out in the eighth Milan reached first on a fielder's choice, Gandey nor Unglaub could bring him home.

TIGERS GIVEN AN OVATION

Several Thousand Fans Greet Champions on Homecoming.

Mayor Thompson Welcomes Manager Jennings and His Men and Congratulate Them on Their Triumph.

Detroit, Oct. 7.—The victorious Detroit American League baseball team on its arrival home this morning, from Chicago, was greeted at the Michigan Central station by a crowd of several thousand baseball enthusiasts, headed by Mayor William B. Thompson.

A brass band accompanied the crowd, and outside the station were automobiles waiting to convey the players to their homes.

Mayor Thompson welcomed Manager Jennings and his men back to the city and congratulated them for their victory on behalf of the city. The crowd showed overwhelmed the players in its desire to grasp their hands.

When the men had finally made their way to the waiting automobiles, "Wild Bill" Donovan being carried on the shoulders of excited fans, the crowd fell in behind the machines and, with the band playing, marched up to the Hotel Pontchartrain, where a jubilee was held in the lobby.

Scores of prominent business men were in the crowd, which marched behind the baseball players to the hotel. After the first scores of jubilation had passed over the team disbanded, to report later at Bennett Park for practice.

GOOD SPORT IS PROMISED.

Motorcycle, Harness, and Running Races Will Be Held Today.

The motorcycle, harness, and running races to be given at the Copperhills track this afternoon promise to be interesting sport.

In the motorcycle events alone 25 machines have been listed. In the 2:40 class and the free-for-all events the entries have exceeded all expectations. A hard race between the owner of the day will be the match race between Jack Prince, owning the "Red Devil," and J. C. Keene's L. J. K. Both these are owned by residents of Georgetown, and that end of the town ever since the track was arranged.

The distance by the motor races will be 10 miles, and the running, trotting, and harness races of one mile heat, best three in five. A special train for the grounds will leave the Union station at 2:45 p. m., arriving at the Soldiers' Home track. Returning, the train will leave at 4:45 p. m., and at intervals on the hour and half hours during the return trip at 4:15 p. m.
